Fintel partners with Intellect Design Arena to introduce enterprise grade Agentic AI advisory architecture to the UK market

Fintel plc (AIM: FNTL), a leading provider of software and services to the UK retail financial services sector, is pleased to announce that it has entered into non legally binding heads of terms agreement with Intellect Design Arena Limited (NSE: INTELLECT), a global leader in AI-first, enterprise-grade financial technology, to establish a joint venture company (the "Joint Venture") to develop and commercialise an AI-led financial advisory platform for the UK market (the "Platform").

Key Highlights

- 50:50 joint venture to be incorporated in the United Kingdom, subject to regulatory approvals
- Platform to be specifically designed for the UK retail financial services market, combining Fintel's market-leading data, distribution and customer relationships with Intellect Design Arena's AI-first technology and global financial services expertise
- Governance structure of five board members: two nominees each from Fintel and Intellect Design Arena, plus one independent director
- Capital contributions and share issuance details to be finalised at incorporation; no material cash outflow anticipated at this stage, with both parties seeking to invest up to £5m in JV funding
- Consistent with Fintel's stated strategy to become the key technology and data partner to UK retail financial services

Background and Strategic Rationale

The Board believes the Joint Venture represents a compelling opportunity to accelerate Fintel's Software & Data strategy by combining complementary capabilities across both organisations.

Fintel brings to the Joint Venture its deep UK market expertise, an established and loyal customer base spanning thousands of financial intermediaries, and Defaqto's market-leading product ratings, pricing data and research capabilities. Intellect Design Arena brings its proprietary eMACH.ai open finance platform and Purple Fabric AI architecture, which are deployed across more than 500 financial institutions in 57 countries.

The UK retail financial advisory market is undergoing significant structural change, driven by the Financial Conduct Authority's Consumer Duty requirements, rising demand for accessible financial advice, and rapid advances in AI-enabled technology. The Board considers the Joint Venture well positioned to address this opportunity by enabling advisers to access higher-quality, lower-cost technology, workflow and decisioning solutions through an integrated, AI-powered platform.
